Mayhew likes mill's chances

By Frank Ryan

A major announcement on a proposed $115 million pulp and fine paper mill for Drayton Valley is expected before the end of the week.

"We're still waiting final word from the provincial government," stated Makin vice-president Stewart Behie Monday afternoon from his Calgary office.

"We've been told the letters we require are forthcoming, but, until we receive those letters the final piece of the puzzle is missing," he added.

Makin Pulp and Paper had set Jan. 31 as their deadline with the government, due to other commitments.

Behie is hoping the government letters are forthcoming, so the project can proceed as planned.

"We want to go in Drayton Valley, that's my priority, but if the government can't meet our deadlines, we will have to look elsewhere," Behie commented.

Meanwhile, Drayton Valley mayor Bob Mayhew is split 50-50 on the chances of the mill coming.

"I feel there is a good possibility the mill will go ahead as planned," the mayor said after attending a meeting between the developers and eight government representatives in Edmonton last Tuesday.

"I liked what I heard," the mayor added. "But, for all concerned, it was still a waiting game late Monday afternoon."

Rushin' the season

The weatherman has been nice, but golling in January? No, it's not what you think. Les Bannerman, left, president of the Drayton Valley Golf Course, used a shovel to build a tee for Chamber of Commerce winter carnival chairman Merv Pasula, for a few practice swings in preparation for SNOW-GOLF, one of the events planned for the March winter carnival. It looks like fun.

Public pressure gains commitment

Billed as a teachers' strike information session, a Monday night meeting at the Leduc Elks Hall turned out to be more than organizers expected.

The event attracted about 300 residents from throughout the county, shedding its inappropriately mild label as concerns were strongly voiced to representatives of both the county school board and the Alberta Teachers Association.

The two and one half hour gathering provided the public with the opportunity to question the two parties, who have so far been unsuccessful in resolving a week-old teachers' strike.

From the onset, the audience was clearly split in opinion. Support for the teachers' stand was loudly echoed, as was dismay over the prospects of rising taxes to cover a teachers' salary increment.

But concern for the education of children prevailed and the crowd was successful in evoking commitments from the two negotiating teams to schedule an 8 a.m. meeting Tues., Jan. 29.

School board chairman, Albert Klapstein and ATA negotiator Greg Sylvester were on hand to provide answers, together with their respective contingents.

After substantiating their bargaining positions, Klapstein and Sylvester fielded questions from the audience, which were often fueled with emotion.

Former county councillor and New Sarepta area resident, Reinhold Ortlieb, told Klapstein, "Somebody should lock you up in a room with the teachers until you reach a settlement to get my kids back to school."

The school board chairman was met with a barrage of questions from angry residents, several of whom were county teachers.

ON STRIKE WEEK 2

"You have said we have some of the best teachers. But if City of Leduc teachers make 1.7 per cent more than teachers in Beaumont, does that mean they're not quite as good?" asked one audience member.

Continual reference was made to a $190 per day meeting fee available to trustees, an increase from last year's $81 payment.

"Do you feel your time is much more valuable than the teachers?" queried a Beaumont parent. "Can you justify your 40 per cent increase and only offer teachers two per cent?"

A Warburg teacher suggested, "Being in debt, why did the board see fit to raise a per diem fee of $190 in parity with the City of Edmonton. I think I, as a teacher, would love to have parity with their teachers."

Klapstein offered answers to each question commenting, "If you see I'm turning red, it's because I feel I am being roasted."

He told one teacher, "You argue because you are a professional with the same qualifications as the people in Leduc. But you need to accept the fact that in virtually every profession, their (professionals) are not paid the same."

"What kind of business would they build up, I ask you? What other profession has that?"

County bargaining position endangers quality education

By Phil Courterelle

By keeping teachers' salaries below those of the City of Leduc, the County Board of Education is endangering the "quality of life" in rural communities, Breton Village Councillor Jack Hilker says.

Hilker, also the Alberta Teachers Association representative at Breton High School, claims the teachers' contract demands are necessary to attract and keep quality teachers in the Leduc County system and by not offering at least parity with city educators, the board is harming rural communities.

The Leduc County strike, now into its second week, affects about 400 students in Breton's two public schools.

Speaking both as a councillor and teacher, Hilker said if teachers return to work "knowing they're getting considerably less than their counterparts in Leduc, it's going to affect morale."

"If you have unhappy workers you're not getting as good a work as you should have."

'If teachers return to work knowing they're getting considerably less than their counterparts in Leduc, it's going to affect morale.' — Hilker

Less pay would "grate" on teachers and affect the extra-curricular activities they participate in as well as the variety of "options" offered at the high school, he said.

"Our staff in Breton alone does a pile of extra-curricular work. I imagine teachers would do it no matter what we settle for, but I know it would grate on us knowing we're making less than teachers in Winfield, which is in the County of Wetaskiwin or teachers in Drayton Valley, which is the County of Parkland."

"We are struggling to maintain the status quo as far as school staff is concerned, (since) our (Breton High School's) enrolment is down," he said.

"If we're going to offer quality education — with all the options — we have to maintain current staff and have to have staff paid so they feel equal."

He added the strike is also having a "spin off" affect touching about 400 students, support staff and various village businesses.

According to Hilker, the province should investigate implementing a provincial salary grid for teachers that would do away with local bargaining.

"As a concerned teacher, I personally think there should be some thought — some serious thought — about a provincial grid," Hilker said, which would eliminate "the bad blood that's involved in local bargaining."

"We (teachers) have nothing to lose by going on a provincial grid."

Although Hilker admitted such a plan could lower basic salary levels in the province's higher-paid school districts and at the same time, increase salaries in the lower-paid districts, it would create a "happy medium" and parity throughout the province.

Strike meeting

does not have the right to make decisions or influence another," he continued. "I do not think my neighbor should influence my decisions."

Momentum at the meeting shifted after one audience member stood up, citing, "Personally, I do not feel our taxes should go up any more. Wasn't this meeting for ratepayers and parents and not for teachers?"

"I think a lot of the parents and ratepayers feel intimidated by all the teachers here," she added, as applause broke out in the room.

Klapstein said he received several calls from local taxpayers, noting, "There's been overwhelming response, they're saying don't pay anymore and asking 'why in the heck did you put it on the table they way it is?'"

An angry county resident told the audience, "I am ticked off at the profession. I have a degree in education and I've fed up with the garbage teachers have to take from the union. — that's all the ATA is — a union."

"I suggest the teachers go back to school Wednesday morning, without the union. Be happy you have a job," he told the teachers. "I have no increase — my wallet is almost empty and I have seven kids to feed."

A history of the talks between the two parties was outlined by both sides at the beginning of the session. The crowd heard negotiations began in February, shortly after the 1983 contract was settled. Subsequent meetings failed to bring about the mutually accepted agreement.

The two sides met with a mediator in May — negotiations continued into the fall.

Sylvester pointed out that after the city school board offered to bargain independently of the county in early December, the city's problems were resolved almost immediately.

Klapstein noted, "The city negotiations continued without a bargaining agent from the ATA or the ASTA — and they settled."

City of Leduc teachers settled for two-year agreement providing for zero increase in 1984, 1.5 per cent Jan. 1, 1985 and 2.5 per cent from Sept. 1, 1985 to Dec. 31, 1985. The offer gave city teachers the cost of 2.33 per cent and an end rate of four per cent.

There were five subsequent meetings from the time county teachers took a strike vote Dec. 14 until Jan. 18, according to Sylvester.

"The board insisted it would not pay the same as the city. The teachers reduced their request and were willing to meet the board half way."

Response poor to schools 25 reunion plans

In one last attempt to encourage people to get involved, organizers of the Frank Maddock 25 Year Anniversary Reunion have extended the ticket deadline to Feb. 28.

"At this time we will be making final arrangements and those who haven't replied will be turned away," said Brenda Thompson, member of the reunion's advertising committee.

"We have no choice in this matter because of supper reservations and fire regulations," she added.

"We are not getting the response we expected, but are going ahead with plans," said Jean Chaney, another organizer.

"We have gotten a lot of feedback from people who say they will be coming, but who haven't formally replied," Chaney added.

"They have to understand that they can't just show up that weekend and expect to attend."

In addition to sending out 3300 invitations, letters to the editor have been sent to 120 papers across Alberta and the advertising done on six or seven radio stations.

"The best response is from the school years 1960-69 and then 1970-78. The more recent years haven't shown that much interest," she said.

"I guess nostalgia is not a part of their life yet," Chaney joked.

With five months to go before the reunion, planned for June 28-30, organizers are busily making the arrangements. "Things are starting to fall in place and we are all excited about it," Chaney said.

Nine former Frank Maddock High School students are in charge of the huge project.

Committees in charge of decorations, bar, registration, caterer, banquet, advertising and the hall have been struck, she added.

"The registration package is quite interesting." It will include the ticket, a history of the schools, pictures old and new and a specially designed pin, Chaney said.

Plans for the three-day event include registration the first day, more registration, an open house, tours of the schools, outdoor ceremonies, dinner and a dance on the 29th. A family fun day is in the works for the last day.

"I'm sure we're going to have a good time," said Chaney.

Local students enjoy music

When someone mentions the word "education," the first things that come to mind are textbooks and binders.

But education occurs through many different mediums and music is one of them.

Forty-two students in Grades 9 to 12 are in this year's senior band at Frank Maddock High School. "And many kids have a lot of talent," said music teacher Blair Proctor.

Playing strictly percussion and wind instruments, with the exception of one electric bass guitar, the students are in class three times a week.

The band generally does two school performances a year, one before Christmas and one in the first part of June.

"But we have a lot of opportunities to perform," he said.

A county-sponsored band festival is planned for Stony Plain Feb. 27 and the group expects to attend. "I'm also looking into the Edison Music Festival and one in Red Deer."

Though the senior band does play traditional band music like marches, it also works on jazz and modern music. And in fact is presently practising the theme for The 'A' Team.

"We throw in a little of everything. Kids do make suggestions about the music we play," Proctor said.

It isn't a requirement, but most of the students own their own instruments and outside of class the amount of time they put into practise is their decision.

Proctor is optimistic about the band's success. "We're in a building period right now, but I've got good hopes."

Clark tours riding Friday

Local MP Joe Clark will visit Drayton Valley Friday as part of a brief constituency tour which will include the first meeting of the Yellowhead Economic Council in Onoway.

The External Affairs Minister will be at the Drayton Valley Hotel for a noon luncheon meeting jointly sponsored by the town and the Chamber of Commerce.

Clark will also address several other groups in the riding's east end during his February visit.

The Yellowhead Economic Council, formed by Clark last November, has been given a mandate to develop employment opportunities and encourage business and industry in the riding.

Approximately 24

representatives from communities throughout Yellowhead, including local town councillor Claire Carefoot and town manager Manny Deol, will sit with the council.

Although its first meeting is being considered largely an organizational gathering, it will include an announcement from Clark on the Canada Works Grant which will allocate funds for various industry and employment producing projects.

Tickets for Clark's Drayton Valley meeting are available from: NRS Nichols Realty, Century 21 Realty, Pembina Pharmacy and Penney's Drug Mart.

Limited seating is available.

Frozen tundra?

It will be a few weeks yet before the ice goes out in the North Saskatchewan River ... which is evident from this scene. If you're watching for a change of the seasons, watch the river for signs.

Icy streets a hazard to all

Because of the size of our town many people, young and old alike, walk.

But walking is very dangerous because of the ice and snow left on the sidewalks.

It's reached the point that it's obvious those in question have no thought of cleaning their walks. Likely, the cleaning is being left to a good mid-winter thaw.

Since the Town of Drayton Valley has a bylaw enforcement officer, we can't think of a better job for him than to remind property owners of their obligation to keep walks clean, or at least sanded.

And if the town has a supply of sand they might consider spreading some of it around.

Carnival planned for March weekend

Circle March 8, 9 and 10 on your calendar — you'll want to be in Drayton Valley that weekend.

The occasion will be the Drayton Valley Chamber of Commerce first annual winter carnival.

The chamber of commerce deserves a big bouquet for proceeding with this event. Most towns don't have any major promotion of this type in the winter months because of the weather, but it's one way to create activity.

And, from the list of activities the winter carnival committee is lining up — it promises to be a weekend to be in Drayton Valley.

Smitty's closes, highway reflectors needed

It isn't taking long to get involved. Commitments to date include sitting on the media committee for the 1986 Alberta Senior Games and working with the Chamber of Commerce tourist people. Bruce Clemmer, a member of the tourist committee left me a copy of the 1984 Evergreen tourist destination area study and I've found it very interesting reading.

I'm also looking forward to working with the Chamber of Commerce winter carnival committee. They have three action-packed days planned for March 8, 9 and 10.

Smitty's restaurant, that operated at the rear of the Westwind Motor Inn, has served their last meal in Drayton Valley. The franchise has left and the hotel has taken over the cafe.

Our apologies to the Thompson family. In our first Citizen-of-the-Week feature, we made reference to Linda's husband Ron and that should have been Vaughan. Sorry folks.

Had the opportunity to drive through Provincial Park at Evansburg last week. Looks like a place my family will love.

Hopefully the Department of Highways will see this. Some type of reflectors are badly needed at the junction of highways 22 and 640. Travelling down No. 22 at night it is next to impossible to see the turnoff onto the Violet Grove/Lodgepole road.

A thank you to Ellie Fortier, who along with husband Dave, operate the Tomahawk General Store. We stopped into Tomahawk last week and appreciated hearing some of the community happenings from Mrs. Fortier.

Let's hear it for "radical" ideas

By Phil Courterelle

When you're talking about the nuclear arms race, there's hardly anything that isn't called "radical" by one side or another.

Trigger-happy rednecks think peace-loving liberals are radical for crying about a nuclear freeze and saving mankind; the peace-loving liberals think the trigger-happy rednecks are radical for wanting to have space toys that rival Luke Skywalker's and to battle that communist Darth Vader in deep space.

Well, it's my turn to throw a couple radical ideas into the melee.

One personal note beforehand: I don't profess to have done any great research into the matter aside from media reports and magazine articles. The "ideas" are based simply on what I've seen and heard and something that can be vaguely described as a "feeling". I'd almost say they were based on "common sense", but then if such a thing did exist we wouldn't be in this mess now would we?

Onward...

First off, The research and development of American weapons has more to do with Russian economics than it does with the research and development of American weapons.

The American — and industrialized countries' — capitalist system is more prepared to absorb the costs of such government expenditures as defense spending demands. Its much more diverse and competitive system allows Uncle Sam to spend his billions on defense and until recently, offset those expenditures with tax increases and ever-increasing Gross National Product figures (the road-sign of most economies).

Comment

The USSR, however, is a limited, resource based country. The more money it spends on defense, the less it has from its dwindling resource capital to spend domestically. A famine here, drought there, failed wheat crops and the whole system is in peril.

So when Uncle Sam announces proudly and boldly it wants to spend so many billions of dollars on research and development of a "star wars" defense system, Mother Russia has little option but to follow. The arms race is a nasty affair when it comes to money and keeping up with the Jones'.

Thus, by simply announcing a new program or better missile, the Americans are forcing the Soviets to spend money they can't afford. It's no secret the Soviet economy lacks many of America's favorite things: Lewis, Nikes, microwave ovens and similar fruits from the capitalist harvest.

The bet is, "Can the Americans cause the Russians to spend so much of their yearly budget on defense, that suffering among the peasants boils and erupts into revolution and — hopefully — bringing in a system of capitalist democracy?" At least that's one way of looking at it.

Second: "Eventually, all this research and development will lead to a "better" way of killing each other and make the possibility of an ugly nuclear war obsolete."

Let's face it, the nuclear bomb has come only a short distance from the first gunpowder invented a couple centuries back: both exploded, both leave holes, both kill people, only the nukes do a much bigger job of it.

It really is a crude weapon. Its only real sophistication is the guidance hardware that pin points exactly where the big hole is supposed to be.

Why not invent some device that can stop a wave of nuclear weapons from erasing half a continent and its inhabitants? Why not take our petty little differences into space and hash things out where — and this is a wild assumption — the least amount of death and destruction will occur.

Better yet, why not set up some rules, some guidelines, some good old fashion RED TAPE to ensure the final and ominous confrontation doesn't put good ole earth out of the game.

So much for radical ideas.

Replies slow for reunion

Dear Editor,

We would really appreciate your help. We are making plans for a 25-year high school anniversary reunion. Frank Maddock High School in Drayton Valley, AB has been in existence for 25 years this year. A celebration is being held to honor this 25 year anniversary on June 28, 29 and 30, 1985.

We have sent out invitations to all former students and staff and are now awaiting replies. Our final deadline date is Feb. 28, 1986. At this time, we will be making final arrangements and those who haven't replied will be turned away. We have no choice in this matter because of supper reservations and fire regulations.

We would appreciate your help in printing this letter and, thereby reaching out to any students and staff of Frank Maddock High School who haven't replied or any we may have missed on our invitation list.

All replies, along with $20 per person registration fee, can be mailed to Box 1799, Drayton Valley, AB, T0E 0M0.

Thank you

Detailed sewer study underway

By Phil Courterelle

The Town of Drayton Valley and Parkland County have begun a detailed financial study for upgrading the sewer disposal system at Poplar Ridge.

Town and county engineers met with representatives from the provincial Department of Utilities and Transportation a second time Jan. 23 to discuss what government grants are available for the upgrading.

The town and county are reviewing plans to upgrade the hamlet's present sewer lines and extending town services west of Highway 22.

At a county council meeting here last December, county engineer John Twach outlined several cost scenarios for the improvements but explained without information regarding provincial grants, a final proposal could not be developed.

Council voted 5-2 for the engineer to proceed with grant applications.

Thursday, Twach said there was "no question" the local municipalities were further ahead in developing a proposal now then in December.

"I would say without exception the concerns that were raised and the questions we had were clarified (by the government)," he said.

Previously, the county had been working on "assumptions" regarding funding through the Alberta Water and Sewer Grant Program but can now start "feeding in" appropriate information.

Town engineer Manjeet Saran said the two municipalities will study the situation and try to receive the maximum grant available.

Twach added Wednesday's meeting was scheduled a week later than he anticipated, largely due to the Christmas and New Year's holidays, but he is hoping for "firm" proposals that can be developed by spring.

"On a project this size," he said, "there's a lot of administrative work that has to be done before the snow leaves the ground."

"When the snow does leave the ground, I'm hoping we can have something more firm."

Wildwood & District Family Recreation Complex

Home delayed

Construction of the new senior citizen apartment complex in Drayton Valley should begin early in February, Alberta Home Mortgage Corp. (AHMC) spokesman Joan McCracken confirmed Friday.

The complex, slated for the site of the old Drayton Valley General Hospital, will feature 17 apartment-style units and is scheduled for completion in January 1986.

McCracken, AHMC's manager of communications, said construction start-up is running "a little late" after minor contracting delays.

Tenders were awarded to Handy Andy Construction Ltd. earlier this month and spokesman from the Edmonton firm had expected a starting date of Jan. 15.

The $1.04 million project — including Handy Andy Construction's tender bid and the land purchase — is being financed through the provincial crown corporation which will also cover any operating deficit along with the Canada Mortgage and Housing Corp.

The facility will be managed locally by the Purple Pansey Senior Citizens Society. Rent is based on 25 per cent of a tenant's income.

Computers part of classroom environment

By Carol Dietrich

In a world of rapidly advancing technology, educators cannot sit idly by and let themselves and the school system become outdated.

Computers have been as much a part of the classroom as the chalkboard. And at the beginning of January, Eldorado school implemented a computer program for all of its about 390 students.

"This year teachers and students will be exploring the computer," said vice-principal Ross Beton, co-ordinator of the program.

"Our original plans are that the students have two one-half hour periods a week in the computer room.

"It is a computer literacy program to give children a background in computers.

"The county would like children to have 50 hours on a computer by the time they reach the end of Grade 6 and that should be no problem," he added.

The children are using Logo Made Easy now and will progress to Logo, he said.

"We are hoping to get into some computer assisted instruction programs to help the children with math and language arts."

As the school begins the computer program, it is faced with a different situation. Some of the children have computers at home and others have never laid a finger on one before, Beton said.

"But the nature of the computer makes it easier to cope with.

"The different programs challenge the children at their own level and they are self-involving so the teacher doesn't have to be right with each child."

At present Eldorado school has 11 computers and has ordered four more with the help of a provincial Educational Opportunities Fund grant. "It is our goal to have one computer for every two children in our largest class."

The number of computer programs on the market poses a problem for the school, said principal Howard Pearson.

But the Education Department does provide some guidance in that respect, he added.

One of the major concerns facing the Drayton Valley Curling Club is where a new facility could be located if one is built at all.

Local Curling club looking at new building

By Frank Ryan

The Drayton Valley Curling Club is expected to make a decision by the end of March on a new building.

Some kind of decision is expected by the end of the current season as to which way we will go," explains president Alex Salfi. "We are presently looking at costs," he added.

The curling club is looking at a six-sheet facility that is expected to cost between $800,000 and $1.1 million.

One of the major decisions facing the curling club executive when they do make a decision on expansion, will be the location of the proposed facility.

The curling club owns the land where their present club is situated and if they were to rebuild on that site and add another sheet, it would mean buying some land from the town, on the water tower side of the building. Parking at the present site is also a major concern.

Salfi reports that the curling club has received offers for their land from the provincial government. That was two years ago.

A couple of possible sites for a new six-sheet curling rink could be Lions Park or at the golf course.

"We've checked out the golf course and if we do have to relocate, we will get back to the golf club," Salfi explained.

Two major reasons for stepping up serious expansion talks is the age of the present structure and plant troubles.

The back arch of the existing facility was built in 1959 and the other three-quarters was rebuilt after a fire in '64.

The plant, which was rebuilt 14 years ago, is a major concern. According to Salfi, "the plant is causing the club more and more headaches."

The recent problem just last week, saw the mechanical system shut down to repair the pump. Curlers who use the facility were lucky it was cold that day or all the ice may have been lost.

When the curling plant requires repairs, experts are usually summoned from Edmonton. That's costly to the point of an annual maintenance budget between $5,000 and $6,000.

"There are times when $6,000 isn't enough money to cover our plant problems and there's been years when it's a lot of money," says Salfi.

These plant problems are making it hard for the club to put any money away for a new facility.

The Drayton Valley Curling Club and its plant come under a lot of pressure in the winter months, due to the many major bonspiels. There's one almost every weekend from early January to the end of March. Bonspiels are a major source of income for the club.

In reality, the present rink is a four-sheet facility but the width of the sheets were reduced and another added, just to accommodate the weekend bonspiels.

Salfi and his executive are hoping the aging plant holds on for another eight weeks, when the season ends and plans to start on a new facility.

Annual Minor Hockey Week comes to a quiet close

Another Minor Hockey Week came to a close Saturday and despite a lack of local games for traveling teams, the annual event went well.

In the mitey mite division, Ricks finished on top with a 2-0 record beating Strike 3-1 and Mack and Mann 7-1.

Mack and Mann chalked up their first win this year beating Mobil 5-2. Blocks also beat Mobil in the two-game total point series 6-2. Strike, Mack and Mann and Blocks finished with 1-1 win/loss records. Mobil finished the week 0-2.

The Flint Mites dropped J & A 4-2 in their first Minor Hockey Week matchup Jan. 21 and then beat Braidnor 5-0 Tuesday to win the house-league tournament.

J & A and Braidnor battled to a 1-1 tie and finished with 0-1-1 records.

In pee wee house-league action, Wide West took two games straight, beating Hi West 4-0.

For local travelling teams, this year's Minor Hockey Week was business as usual as all of the four clubs continued with their regular league schedules.

For at least one minor hockey executive member, the lack of ice time for the travelling teams was a disappointment.

"The executive could have done a better job organizing it (Minor Hockey Week), and I'm on the executive," mitey mite and mite team director Gary Janzen said.

"The house league teams each had two games, so I think they did okay so the house league can't complain. But they had two games and some others didn't have any."

The Parkland Flyers Pee Wees extended their three-game unbeaten streak Jan. 26 tying Lacombe 2-2 and then beating their league rivals 4-2 Jan. 27. Both games were at Centennial Civic Arena.

Currently in fifth place, Flyers have four remaining games with their next home game Feb. 9 against league leading Rocky Mountain House. Flyers play in Rimbey Saturday and Sylvan Lake Feb. 5.

Roses Well Service Clippers lost a 9-3 decision to Sylvan Lake in an away game Saturday and lost 6-3 Sunday to Red Deer.

Clippers see the first round of provincial playoffs mid-February against Stony Plain. No date for the first game of the two-game total point series has been set although the second game will be played in Drayton Valley Feb. 17.

League playoff action for the midget 'B' squad should begin early in March.

The Norette Oilers lost a 9-8 decision to Stettler Sunday in Bantam 'B' league action here.

Currently in second place, the Oilers are also approaching provincial playoffs early in February. The team has only four league games left this season.

Norette Oilers lost a close decision Sunday.

Blades still have hopes for playoff spot

By Frank Ryan

The Drayton Valley Blades kept their "alive" playoff hopes alive with a split in two Central Alberta Junior 'B' Hockey League weekend games.

The Blades, with a 7-22 win-loss record and owners of fifth place in the six-team league, dropped a 10-4 decision to visiting Barrhead Elks Saturday night after defeating Rocky Mountain House Rockets 9-5 Friday night.

With just 11 games remaining, the Blades will have to put together a winning streak if they are to catch Hobbema or Barrhead for the final playoff spot. The Blades trail both clubs by 14 points.

Coach Les Sinclair, now 2-6 since taking over from Lorne Poulin, has the week off before entertaining the Rimby West Stars in an 8:30 p.m. game Friday. The Blades are scheduled to play in Barrhead Sunday.

Dean Mulgrew, who scored two for the Blades in their Saturday loss, opened the scoring early in the first period, only to have the Elks rebound with six unanswered goals before Sheldon Dunham ended the opening period for the locals. The teams split two goals each in the middle stanza with the Elks collecting two more in the third for their 10-4 win.

Three teams may join

League looking at expansion

The Central Alberta Junior 'B' Hockey League is taking a serious look at expansion plans for the 1985-86 season.

Three centres: Camrose, Stettler and Sylvan Lake, have expressed an interest in joining the existing six-team league.

Governor Dave Dapkes has set an April 1st deadline for new teams to file their official application.

Les Sinclair, coach of the Drayton Valley Blades, has no problems with expansion.

"I don't mind teams joining the league, just as long as the trips between the centres are not too far apart," he commented.

"Our travelling costs are down this year due to the shorter trips," Sinclair explained. But it wasn't that way when the Blades travelled to Whitecourt and Fort McMurray.

The one application that Sinclair and the rest of the league representatives may take a hard look at, is from Stettler. They have been in the league on two previous occasions and both times left the circuit before the end of the season, due to player troubles.

The Rimby West Stars told a league meeting last week they may introduce a new home ice for-

Don Monte had the other Blade goal while Darin Sauer led the Elks with two. It was a costly win for the Elks as they lost the services of Brian Koberstein in the second, when he injured his right knee after taking a solid hip check. Koberstein, the coach's son, was taken from the ice on a stretcher and transferred to hospital.

The busiest man at the game was scorekeeper Jim Enyedy who almost developed writer's cramp keeping tabs on 27 penalties to the Blades and 20 to the Elks. Blade defenceman Trevor Ceh, who just appeared before the league last week for a rash of penalties that included 247 minutes in just 19 games added 36 minutes to his total.

Three players, Monte, defenceman Roger Gulash and Bill Adler, accounted for all the Blades' scoring in their 9-5 win over last place Rocky Mountain House.

Monte led the charge with a superb four-goal effort followed by Gulash with three and Adler added a pair.

Ken Troutman and Stan Auger led the Rockets with two goals each.

The Rockets led 1-0 after the first period but the Blades stormed back for a 6-3 second period lead before out-scoring the visitors 3-2 in the final stanza.

mat next year that involves playing six games at nearby Bentley and another six at Eckville.

Barrhead, claiming increased costs, would like to see St. Paul, Vegreville, Vermillion and Saddle Lake in the league next year.

Sinclair says all this talk of expansion could result in a two-division league.

ICE CHIPS: Mulgrew and Paul Stables played strong games despite the loss to Barrhead ... Gulash, who hails from Devon, missed the Saturday game ... The Elks had three power play goals while the Blades connected for two power play goals and a shorthanded effort against Rocky ... The Rockets only dressed 10 players and two goaltenders for their game here ... Drayton Valley has asked the league for better officials. The league will look at bringing in officials from Edmonton instead of Hinton and Edson ... Playoffs start March 3 with the first series being a best-of-five, followed by a best-of-seven final ... If interested, the fifth and sixth place teams may play a consolation final ... Blade defenceman Dwayne Parenteau will have to wait on his future from the Alberta Amateur Hockey Association. Parenteau is on the sidelines after a recent altercation with a referee. The AAAA have the game reports, but it's not known when word will come down on their decision.

Cross country skiers looking for members

The seven-year-old Pembina Nordic Ski Club hope to increase their membership as part of National Ski Week.

"Anyone who cross country skis is welcome to our meeting tonight (Wednesday), 7 p.m. in the library at the H.W. Pickup Junior High School", voiced club president Colin Donovan.

At the present time the club has between 25 and 30 members. Donovan feels this number can be improved on, due to the interest in Drayton Valley and area.

"It's a good form of recreation and very inexpensive," Donovan added.

Club members make good use of 15 km of trails located east of the Drayton Valley airport, another 15 km of trails at Lodgepole and designated areas at the Drayton Valley golf course.

The club is looking at increasing their trail system by another 16 km and hope to, in the next two years, to build some sort of shelters along the trails.

"It's been one of our better years, thanks to a good supply of snow," Donovan added.

The club meets Sundays at a designated location for outings. Check the schedule at the Outdoor Store. And, cross country skiing will be part of the Drayton Valley Chamber of Commerce winter carnival in early March.

Local bonspiels scheduled

Area curling rinks will be busy in the next eight weeks with bonspiels scheduled every weekend.

That hectic circuit starts this week with the four-day Breton ladies' and Entwistle men's classics, starting Thursday.

For curlers who wish to travel to other centres, here's a handy guide, complete with contact phone numbers:

Minor hockey good for kids

For Frank Kynoch, helping out the local Norette Oilers' hockey team is no real chore.

In fact, Kynoch rather enjoys watching his son, Scott, and other minor hockey players compete at Centennial Civic Arena, regardless whether he's behind the bench or in the stands.

"I enjoy watching the kids, I've been with most of them since they started," he says adding, "it's good for local youths to have something like minor hockey to participate in."

Not only does it help players learn sportsmanship and team play, minor hockey shows players "how to work hard to achieve what they want to achieve."

"If you're going to do anything in life, you're going to have to work hard to get it."

A former minor league coach and a lifelong resident of Drayton Valley, Kynoch says parents who don't get involved with their child's activities are missing more than just a few hockey games.

Citizen of the Week

"You've got to be involved with your kids. The more you're involved, the more respect they're going to have for you and the community they're brought up in."

"The kids like their parents to be there. A lot of them play harder when they know mom and dad are there."

Bouquet to minor hockey volunteers

A bouquet to all the coaches, managers, officials and other volunteers who work for the good of minor hockey in the area.

It's unfortunate, but so often many who work for the good of the kids, don't get the recognition they rightfully deserve, just because they didn't have a winning season.

You have our thanks.

Thirty-five Drayton Valley hockey players and their coaches will remember this year's minor hockey week for some time. They were guests at the Edmonton Oilers/L.A. Kings game Jan. 21 and after the game had the rare opportunity to rub shoulders and exchange autographs with players like Gretzky and Kurri.

Danny Galivan, known for many years as the Voice of the Montreal Canadiens, will be a guest speaker at the second annual Red Deer Special Olympics Hero's Dinner on Feb. 16. If you are interested in attending, call me.

Village council at Warburg have approved plans for a $45,000 recreation facility that will consist of a go-cart track, motor-cross track, campground and picnic area.

While many of the streets and sidewalks in Drayton Valley are in urgent need of some sand, the arena lines and face-off circles need a coat of paint. They're impossible to see from a spectator point of view.

It's also time for the junior Blades to print another edition of their player roster.

There were 12 Blades' and 18 changes for visiting Rocky Mountain House Rockets at a league game last Friday.

Organizational year for Eldorado parents

The first priority of the Eldorado school parent advisory committee is to draw up bylaws and formally organize itself.

"This will be an organizational year," said school principal Howard Pearson. "We'll just be getting it off the ground."

The executive, to be set up at a future meeting, will be formed from the committee of 13 volunteers who showed up at the Jan. 23 meeting, he said.

"I don't see a lot of activity coming out of this school year."

"But we will get the machinery in place and get ideas about areas we want to look into."

Pearson was anticipating the number of parents who attended this meeting. "That was about how many came to a similar meeting held at Elementary 'B' school."

"The people who came out are the ones who will have the time to commit to the organization."

New County study underway

Government officials are expected to meet with town and county representatives after the first stage of the municipal feasibility study is completed sometime in the next few weeks, the study's head researcher said Friday.

The Department of Municipal Affairs will be looking for input from the different study areas following the completion of a current area assessment, Ian Wight said.

The province launched the study last fall to detail the financial feasibility of forming a new municipality in the Drayton Valley area.

The preliminary stage, which will outline the fiscal capabilities and the road kilometreage in each of the three study areas, is expected by month's end.

Wight said the meeting will give researchers a chance to meet with local administrators and to review data collected up to that point.

The next stage of the study includes looking at what type of municipality — county, municipal district, improvement district — could be developed financially and what the effect on surrounding counties might be.

The study followed inquiries to local MLA

Shirley Cripps and to the Department of Municipal Affairs about forming a new county around Drayton Valley.

The current study area includes a large section of Parkland County's west end and parts of Leduc and Wetaskiwin counties.

Arm wrestler earns trip

Breton arm wrestler Rod Barrett has qualified for the national stand-up championships in Sault Ste Marie.

Competing in a provincial tournament Saturday in Calgary, Barrett earned a first-place finish in the 180 pound and open category.

About 75 arm

wrestlers were competing.

The win follows a fifth-place showing at the Can-Am Arm Wrestling Championships in Reno, Nevada earlier in January.

Barrett, sponsored by Breton Transport and Wild Card Enterprises, will head to Sault Ste Marie May 25 for the national final.

"We have a lot of parent support, but some just don't have the time."

Parent support for Eldorado school has been good in the past, Pearson said.

"Our soup program is run by parents right now and I co-ordinate it. The parent advisory committee would take that over completely."

Course offered

Due to a continuous demand for certified babysitters, a five-week course is being offered in Drayton Valley by the Alberta Safety Council.

Val Mulligan, president of the sponsoring Drayton Valley Kinnette Club says "there is a real demand for a course of this nature."

A similar course was held in Drayton Valley four years ago and 40 people signed up.

The course will be offered from Feb. 18 to March 20, every Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., at St. Anthony School. A cost of $4 per person will cover the cost of books. Interested babysitters must be at least 12 years of age. Registrations are being handled by the Drayton Valley recreation department. Call them today.

"This course gives young people the training they need, should an emergency arise," says Mulligan. The five-week course will include presentations by a registered nurse, fire chief and the RCMP. She added that the young people look forward to this type of course.

Certificates will be awarded at the end of the course.

The Kinnette president says there's a real demand from town folk and country residents for certified sitters.

Hoshowski off to Northerns

It's back to serious business for Drayton Valley's Joe Hoshowski this weekend.

The Hoshowski foursome that went undefeated (5-0) in the Zone 16 seniors' curling playdowns two weeks ago in Spruce Grove, will be at the Jasper Place club in Edmonton this weekend for the Northern Alberta playdowns. The curling starts Thursday and ends Sunday.

Qualifiers from the weekend playoff at the Jasper Place club will advance to the provincials Feb. 20-24 at the Thistle Club in Edmonton. The Canadian finals will be held March 17-23 in Yorkton, Sask.

Accompanying Hoshowski to the northern Alberta playdowns will be third, Zoltan Liba; second, Fred Snell and lead, Bert Trueman.

Carnival plans continue

Events are quickly falling into place for Drayton Valley's first annual winter carnival.

"Things are going quite well for the first time out," stated carnival chairman Merv Pasula.

The carnival, to be held the weekend of March 8, 9 and 10, is being put together by the Drayton Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Groups interested in staging an event or groups already planning something that weekend, are asked to contact Pasula at 542-5582.

"We're more interested to hear from groups or organizations planning something that weekend," the carnival chairman commented.

Some of the events confirmed include a fashion show, supper and dance opening night with a queen contest, ice show, carnival poster contest, snowgolf, cross country skiing, toboggan races and a preschool program.

Executive chosen

The County of Parkland Parks and Recreation board selected a new executive at its Jan. 7 meeting in Stony Plain. Wade Trimble from Division 8 is the new board chairman, succeeding Arlaine Monaghan from Division 1.

Be Scheidegan, Division 4, is the new vice-chairman.

The appointments are for a one-year term.

Board members were divided into budget, grants, open space, policy and personnel committees.

Members were also selected to sit on the Spruce Grove Theatre

Management Committee, the Multicultural Heritage Centre Advisory Committee, the Log Building Advisory Committee, the Park Valley (Drayton Valley) Pool Committee and the Spruce Grove Arena Committee.

School visit

Students from Elementary 'B' School took time out Thursday to tour The Western Review office and production area in Drayton Valley.

About 35 Grade 5 students went on the field trip. Here, layout artist Karin Ness demonstrates production techniques used at the newspaper.

Local boxers win

Coaches from the Derrick Boxing Club had much to smile about last weekend as two young fighters topped a card held at Spy Hill Correctional Institute in Calgary.

Rodney Tetreault stopped Danny Lafabreire of Calgary's Bowmont Club in the first round while Randy McQuig beat Dana Skywalker of Browning, Montana after two rounds.

Kirk Urchysahyn of the Derrick Boxing Club was stopped in the first round of his fight against a Cardston Blood Reserve opponent.

Energy workshop geared to help consumers

After cancelling it once, the County of Parkland parks and recreation department will hold the energy workshop Feb. 7 at the county services building in Drayton Valley at 7:30 p.m.

It was originally planned for Nov. 29 but there were not enough registrations to justify holding it. "Lack of interest" may have been caused by the (pre-Christmas) season but right now there is a lull in activity and more people should attend," said west-end county recreation director Ed Haykowski.

The whole point of the free workshop is to give consumers a break and help them conserve and use energy more efficiently, he said.

"The purpose of the workshop is to show people what everyday materials they can use to be more energy conscious."

"Homeowners, those thinking about buying a house, and apartment dwellers should all be interested in saving energy."

"Anyone with a sincere interest in conserving energy and lowering their bills will find the workshop useful," he added.

Topics such as using caulking around windows and locating spots in the home where energy escapes will be discussed by a representative from the Alberta government. The two-hour workshop will include quizzes, prizes and free booklets and the demonstration of 100 energy-saving devices.

The workshop is definitely timely. "If you look at the cost of natural gas and electricity, without question people are more cost-conscious than ever."

"I'm hoping to see a minimum of 20 people, with a maximum of 30-35," he said.

"We certainly encourage people to register for the workshop."

Motor Vehicles re-locates

The Drayton Valley motor vehicles licensing office has moved to its third location in six months.

Formerly situated in the Treasury Branch and then the Inkpot, it is now in the Prudential Assurance office across from Stedman's.

After the town was left without a licensing office for one week service was resumed Jan. 21, the first official day in its present location.

"We had good traffic that day, but no line-ups," said John Mulligan, owner of Prudential Assurance. "People have been coming in steady since then."

Service will remain much the same as it was in its former location except new office hours will be 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday to Friday.

The office issues license plates, sticker renewals, in-transit stickers and operator's licenses, he said.

"Location of the licensing office came up for re-tender after the Inkpot changed hands and we applied."

The office is licensed under Mulligan but will operate separately from his insurance business.

Two women have been hired to operate the licensing office. "They will spend 50 per cent of their time taking care of it and work for me the rest of the time."

The two had to take a three-day crash course on the basics of running the operation. The system is computerized and connected to a central system in Edmonton.

Successful tour

By Sylvia Robb

The new Lin-Berry-Buck 4-H Beef Club held their first calf tour on Jan. 26.

All 11 members participated in the tour which started at 10 a.m. and ended in the afternoon at 3.

A calf tour consists of all members, their leader Doug Holmgren, assistant leaders Gilbert Martin and Ron Szala, and some parents touring from farm to farm to see how each member is getting on with his or her calf. Pointers were also offered to each member that may help them in the healthy growth of their animals.

Next 4-H meeting of the Lin-Berry-Buck Club will be held at the Trevor Lawson home on Feb. 14.

Space a major concern for local association

Residential space is a scarce commodity for the Drayton Valley Association for the Developmentally Handicapped.

"We are filled to capacity at both group homes," said executive director Ron Szala.

The residences, Valley View and Green Acres, can each house six people.

There are nine people, who require residence living, on a waiting list, he added.

"Without movement in the residences, those on the list have to remain at home."

Some of these people are far enough away from Drayton Valley that it is unfeasible for them to come and take part in the association's day program, Szala said.

"At present, we have two individuals in their final stages of readiness for independent living, but we need people who would accommodate them in a room and board situation so they can move out of residence.

"We need more people interested in the approved home program.

"In the past it was difficult to find people, but things may have changed," he said optimistically.

With the present provincial government austerity measures, the possibility of constructing a new group home is out of reach.

The capital costs are not the biggest worry, he said. "Some operational dollars have to come forward before we can consider it (building).

"We're hoping there will be a change in government policy," he said.

For the time being, the association is occupying itself with a five-year plan.

"We are trying to project the number and ages of individuals who will be requiring us in the future.

"And we can foresee some major changes.

After 12 years, the association is still relatively young, he said. "There are a number of people in the district who haven't tuned into our service."

"We are still finding out who needs us and we're taking a good, hard look at ourselves," he added.

Charity auction planned for Feb. 14

A number of special items will be up for grabs at the annual Drayton Valley Association for the Developmentally Handicapped (DVADH) Charity Auction scheduled for 7 p.m. Feb. 14 at the Rec Plaza.

A major trip to a southern climate, tickets to Stage West (dinner and theatre) and a local champagne flight will go to the highest bidder.

Sekura family and associates will be the auctioneers and have been a part of it for years. "We usually have four or five hours worth of auctioning to do," said Wendy Sekura.

"Anything from new items, tools, vouchers, tickets and useful used items are on hand.

"And items come from the Drayton Valley area as well as many of the outlying areas."

Last year's auction netted $7,972. "This year the money will go towards a park behind the Beehive bottle depot," said DVADH executive director Ron Szala.

The association is leasing a 4.5-acre patch of land from the town, on which it wants to construct a small park.

"Our employees and other industrial area employees could eat lunch there in the summer," Szala added.

The total cost of the project is $5000 to $6000. "The charity auction is one of our major fund-raising events."

Evaluation compares courses

An evaluation to determine whether core programs offered in small schools differs qualitatively from the programs offered in larger schools will be carried out by the county system during the coming year.

Keephills, Tomahawk and Wabamun will be receiving information affirming desirable program practices and suggesting areas for improvement.

Core programs include mathematics, language arts, social studies and science.

The first draft of the small schools' evaluation project presented for information at the board of education general committee meeting Jan. 15 indicates the school programs and curriculum resources will be compared to provincial standards.

Teaching strategies and procedures and administrative strategies used to meet students' needs will be scrutinized.

The general academic success of graduates two years after they have progressed to an upper level school will be considered. Improvements based on feedback from the evaluation is to be implemented in September.

Barbecue purchased

The Drayton Valley Royal Canadian Legion has purchased a new gas barbecue.

According to president Louis Matlock, the new barbecue will be hooked up indoors to the existing kitchen this week.

In the past barbecues at the legion were held outdoors. That was also the case this past weekend when the new system was installed for the inter-club curling spiel. The $2,200 for the new barbecue came from the legion's general account.

A funny creature

By John Freeman
Grade 5
Elementary 'B' School
Shlitz was a funny creature. He had red eyes that glowed in the dark. His striped body was quite magnificent but enabled other creatures to see him. He was quite proud of his big blue wings which would let him soar up high in the air, then glide down easily. His swordfish tail acted like a rudder. When he was on the ground again, he used his big green and black mag wheels to zoom around the city (most people know him). He borrows skateboards from the children to put under his big monkey-like front legs. He likes to eat birds but can't climb trees to take off well. Instead he seizes traps baited with bird seed. He also likes, big pumpkins which he takes from farmers and in turn helps out on the farm.

He also likes go-go juice which comes from a plant on Mars. He asks NASA to program a space probe to bring some back for him. My monster lives in Australia in the winter and California in the summer. Shlitz has x-ray vision which can see through lead. He is very good at skateboarding and has a tendency to get his mag wheels too close to his mag wheels.

Two sheepskin coats missing

Crime Stoppers want to find the thieves responsible for the theft of two coats from the legion hall in Drayton Valley, AB.

On the evening of the 31st of December, 1984, two local residents of Drayton Valley were attending a New Year's Eve party at the legion hall. Both stayed until the party was nearly over. At approximately 1:30 a.m. when they were leaving, they discovered that their two sheepskin coats, brown in color, were missing. In one of the coats was a key chain with the name "Frede" inscribed on it. Both coats were valued at approximately $600 each.

Investigators believe the thief entered the lobby during the party, picked out these two coats and then fled.

Crime Stoppers will pay a cash reward for in-

Shelley Goltz wins shotput gold medal

By LeOpal Larsson
588-2122

Sympathy is extended to the family and friends of Edna (Grandma) McKay, who passed away Jan. 19 at the age of 88 years.

She is survived by four daughters; Lillian and Eddie Adams, Edith Pobuda, Irene and Stanley Krysta, Dorothy and Tony Lonardi; sons, Norman and Joyce McKay, Raymond and Shermain McKay; daughter-in-law, Goldie McKay; 37 grandchildren, 77 great grandchildren, 19 great, great grandchildren and one sister, Fern Wooden.

She was predeceased by her husband, Roy and one son, Melvin.

Funeral services were held in the Buck Lake Hall, Jan. 23 with Rev. Canon George Winchester officiating. Agnes Schuette was the organist and soloist. Pallbearers: Alfred Kaserman, Fred Drader, Gilbert Siegel, Nick Wasyl, Larry Stewart and Norman Inglis. Interment followed in the Maywood Cemetery.

Congratulations to Janet and Ernie Schwengler on the birth of a baby girl in the Rimby hospital Jan. 18. She weighed 6 lbs. 14 oz. and is named Justina Marie, a sister for Steven. Proud grandparents are Marlene Kramer and Adam and Lecodia Schwengler. Great grandparents are Ernie and Iva Kramer and Phyllis and Marvin Becker.

Vera Bruz enjoyed the weekend of Jan. 18-20 curling at Calumet (east of Ponoka) with her sisters and a friend. They placed third or fourth in the first event.

Congratulations to Brian McLeod and Dale Cartwright of Drayton Valley on their recent engagement.

Sympathy is extended to Fred and Ede Drader on the death of their brother-in-law, George Stady.

Jackie Hendricks is working in Grande Prairie. Stacey is staying with the Bartmans while her mother is away.

The next bingo will be Feb. 5. Everyone welcome.

Congratulations to Shelley Goltz on winning a gold medal in shotput at the Saskatchewan indoor track and field games in Saskatoon Dec. 27 to 29. Also competing were Tommy Willows and Kelly Gentes, who placed in the ribbons in racing. These young people compete through the Leduc Track and Field Club. They were privileged to visit with Canadian Olympic stars there.

Happy January birthday to Roger Glasel,

Julie Wollen, Andy Anderson, Ruby Woods, George McLeod, Joyce Ingile, Lisa Banack, Ernie Kramer and Bill Gabriel.

Happy wedding anniversary to Pete and Kathleen Kise.

The public will be allowed to tour the new Park Valley swimming pool on Saturday, Feb. 9.

Recreation director Dennis Woolsey says tours, open to the general public, will be available for a two-hour period starting at 4:30 p.m. Coffee and donuts will be served. Prior to the public tours, the new indoor pool will be officially opened at a 2 o'clock ceremony.

The public tours were arranged after local demand to see the pool. Unfortunately, the official opening can only accommodate 160 people on the main deck.

Senior returns to lodge

By Edith Deby

Lila Denet, the former Lila Combs, is here from Williams Lake, BC, to visit her mother, Mona Ey, and other relatives.

Lila grew up in Rocky Rapids and is determined to see as many of the people she knew during that time as she possibly can.

Lila has become a world traveller and now has her sights set on Australia.

Ed Hines, who celebrated his 80th birthday last fall, has recently returned from spending some time in an Edmonton hospital and has moved into Shangri-La Lodge.

Rev. Wes Long and his family will be leaving Drayton Valley soon. Rev. Long has accepted an appointment to a church in Saskatoon. He will leave here in May and Mrs. Long will follow with the children when school is out. The Longs have lived in Drayton Valley for 11 years.

Rose Pare has returned from Aberdeen, Scotland, where she celebrated Christmas with her son Patrick, his wife Diane, and their son, Dillon.

The weather left something to be desired — drizzle every day and no sunshine.

Christmas day began with an invitation from a neighbor for a fish and champagne breakfast. In Scotland Christmas is regarded as a religious day and is celebrated as such, but New Years is something else again! The celebrations last for at least three days with much visiting and feasting.

There are about 40 Canadian families in Aberdeen, where the men who are engaged in off-shore drilling have their homes.

We would really like to thank all our friends, relatives and neighbors from Lodgepole, Drayton Valley, Violet Grove and surrounding areas for their assistance and donations after our fire on Dec. 19/84.

We would also thank the fire department, hospital, ambulance and police for their quick arrival and assistance.

We would like to give a special thank you to Mr. John Unger and family for getting the fire department and helping at the scene of the fire.

The legion gets a most grateful thank you for their generous donation. Gooding & Matt Construction & employees and the Come employees in Warburg for their lovely donations. Also, we would like to thank the Elks Hall for their donation.

A very special thank you goes out to Leonard & Faye Jacobson & family for their generous offer of keeping us for 10 days in their home and treating us like one of the family.

Thanks to all of you, our 1985 year looks hopeful.

Have a Happy New Year.

Thank You Again

Lots of services available

Library a busy spot

By Carol Dietrich

Solitude and refuge from reality. Those are two things you can rely on when you go to a library.

But colorful posters and goofy characters? If you've stepped inside the Drayton Valley Municipal Library you know these are as much a part of the atmosphere as the shelves of books.

At its current location, 51 St. and 51 Ave., for about five years, the library has grown to provide a good selection of reading material for its patrons, said assistant librarian Doreen Ellery.

"Two shipments of books are added to our collection each month, so we are constantly growing."

"The only trouble is that we are cramped for space," she added.

Aside from the usual borrowing of books, the library offers a number of other services such as inter-library loans.

"We attempt to locate a book in the Yellowhead Regional Library System first, when looking for a book not in our library."

If we can't find it there, then we search in other libraries across this or other provinces, Ellery said.

Other services include access to books in 30 foreign languages, free loan of two instamatic cameras (providing people provide their own film) and rental of a 16 mm projector.

A trading post has also been set up. "People can exchange similar books and they need not be library members."

Also available are talking books for those with seeing disabilities or those with injuries (such as people wearing casts, etc.), she added.

"Anyone who has a medical form filled out can use the cassettes."

And a number of large print books are on hand as well, Ellery said.

People of all ages take advantage of the library. "There is a good all-round usage."

"And there is an outreach program for seniors, whereby someone takes books over to them."

Traffic in and out of the municipal library is constant all year, she said.

"It slackens just before a big holiday, but picks up again right after."

During July and August library hours are cut down, but the rest of the time they are: Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday — 9:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m., Wednesday — noon to 5 p.m. and Saturday — 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Books are taken out on a three-week loan period and can be renewed if there is no other request for them, Ellery added.

Yearly membership fees are $2 for students, $5 for adults, $10 for a family and seniors are complimentary.

Village amalgamation unfeasible — study

A study of the feasibility of amalgamating the Village of Evansburg and the Village of Entwistle indicates such a move is not feasible at this time.

Ian Wight of Special Projects branch of Alberta Municipal Affairs, who conducted the study, noted "there are too many contrasts in the finances because of recent history." He added that Entwistle is a small, regular, basically served village whereas Evansburg is quite large and has been fairly ambitious in recent years (ie. paving) with a fairly heavy debt load.

He added the difference would have been even greater but Entwistle also has a debt load with its utility (water/sewer) project.

Wight said that both communities need more development to help pay off their debt load. He pointed out as you attract more the broader base would aid both villages.

The finalized study is expected to be released in about a month. Though the indications are that amalgamation is not feasible at this time, "there is lots of justification and scope for co-operation," said Wight.

It stipulates that areas for co-operation would best be determined through inter-municipal discussion then suggests the following areas of support and greater involvement, or action, by the joint Chamber of Commerce in local economic development.

*discussion with other area municipalities on the creation of a rural business project in the area. (Such projects provide provincial funding through Alberta Tourism and Small Business to accommodate hiring a full-time economic development specialist. Backed by some community financial support the grant provides an ongoing program.)

*preparation by the village administrators of a report of all areas where there is potential for more effective service, or lower costs through co-operation, joint agreements, etc.

*request Municipal Affairs undertake the re-assessments of the villages in the same year. This would facilitate an easier comparison of the mill structures of the two communities.

*regular joint council meetings (ie. every two months) to review areas of mutual interest.

*explore possible mechanisms for the sharing of tax or grant-in-lieu payments by new industry/commerce of public institutions attracted to either municipality as a result of a joint development initiative.

*consider adopting a joint municipal plan.

*review potential advantages/disadvantages of a regional services commission involving both villages.

Wight suggested that implementation of some of these items would see less of an incentive to compete and more of an incentive to co-operate between the villages. He concluded that they are complimentary communities.

Wight said the financial analysis part of the report is presently being completed along with a summary. He anticipated that a joint meeting would be held sometime in February to formally accept the report and to possibly prioritize the agenda for action.

Couple active in community life for years

By Donna Haukedal

Robert and Bertha Elliot celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last July, but still lead very active lives.

It all began for Robert 79 years ago in a community near Peterborough, Ont. At six years of age his father moved the family, household effects and livestock to a homestead near Vermilion.

At that time Grade 8 wasn't available in their new community, so at age 12 Robert returned to Ontario for further schooling. He attended high school in Vermilion, followed by a term at the Normal School in Camrose. Thus he began his career as a school teacher which lasted 47 years. Two of his brothers also were teachers.

Robert taught in several rural schools, including his home town school. In 1934 he and Bertha were married. They lived in Waskatenau for 14 years where Robert also taught.

Then, Robert decided it was time for a change. He asked Bertha where she would like to move. There was a demand for teachers at that time. Bertha studied the ads in the Edmonton Journal. "That Lodgepole hit me in the eye every time," she said, "so I said to Robert, 'You know, we've never homesteaded, and that would be like homesteading.'"

The oil boom was still in its early stages in the area and Lodgepole had become an active centre.

"It was just the most wonderful change in the world," said Bertha. She became involved in many community and school groups. She was the first president of the United Church Women when it began in Lodgepole and also president of The Homemakers Club.

Bertha was born Washington, USA. Her mother died when she was four and one-half years of age, so her grandparents came to live with them. The following year her grandfather died. In 1917 Bertha, her father, brother, sister and grandmother moved to Esther, Alberta, when she was nine years old.

But the country was very dry and difficult to farm. She recalls that there was only one year out of six or seven that her father even got his seed grain back. "Our money that we brought from the States was leaving pretty fast," she stated. They moved to another farm near Paradise Valley in the Vermilion area.

After Bertha quit school she started dressmaking, a talent inherited from her mother and grandmother, and has since passed on to her granddaughter who has become a fashion designer.

She stayed on the farm to help and had a little corner of her own as a sewing area and was kept very busy. She said she sewed everything imaginable, as well as doing a lot of crocheting and quilting. Of course in those days there were no patterns. "If you made a pattern it was out of newspaper."

Another talent Bertha made good use of, and enjoyed, is drawing plans for remodelling houses. Both family and friends have profited from this talent.

When the Elliots were married, they honeymooned in Jasper, but in 1934 the Yellowhead Highway was a far cry from the present one. They drove most of the way on an old railway grade. The tracks had been taken up, the ties taken away, and it had been graded down a bit.

"You didn't meet many other cars when you drove to Jasper," said Robert.

It was pouring rain and four girls in the car ahead of them wouldn't let anyone pass. Apparently they wanted help at hand if they got stuck or slid off the road.

"When we got out around Chip Lake we were going across a corduroy place and this car stopped at the other end. When we came across the driver said, 'Buddy, you turn right around and go back. You'll never make it.' He was a big Californian with a low car. Robert told the fellow he would turn around as soon as he could find a place to. But the Elliots had a Chev coupe, high off the ground, so they kept on going.

On that same trip they went to Sunwapta Falls, which was as far as the road went south of Jasper at that time. There they met Dick Rice, owner of CFRN, and his wife, who were also on their honeymoon. The four were standing watching the falls when Mr. Rice started to jump and say, "I've got it! I've got it!" His wife asked him what it was and he replied, "I've got it. It's going to be Sunwapta Broadcasting Station."

In 1965 the Elliots moved to Drayton Valley where Robert taught and was principal of Eldorado Elementary School for six years.

They moved into a small, old bungalow teacherage across from the school, which they later purchased from the school board.

With Bertha's talent it became an attractive, modern and very comfortable home nestled among the evergreens. Patio doors open onto an upper deck which offers a view of the mountains.

Robert retired in 1971. They have two married sons and seven grandchildren. Both are members of the United Church, active in the Senior Citizens Drop-In Centre, both are on the executive of the Senior Citizens Club, active bowlers, enjoy floor hockey and cross country skiing. Bertha is now completing her latest quilt.

Marilyn Russell has her mother from Saskatchewan visiting.
Mabel Bond was visiting in Wildwood last week.

The Wildwood Ladies Aid held their annual meeting on Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the senior citizens centre. The financial statement was passed around and discussed. Edith Benson is again president and Pearl Benson is secretary-treasurer.

Their meetings are the third Wednesday of the month. They have a bingo in the community hall the first Friday of the month.

That pounding and hammering you hear these days is from the men working on the new senior citizens' apartments. The units should be ready this summer.

Brian Howe, project manager of the Wildwood Centennial Park and Ball Diamond, would like to thank the Western Lottery Foundation for their $6,000 donation; also thanks to the volunteers that helped in building on the campground, ball diamond, parking area and playground; and thanks to the Wildwood Senior Citizen Club for donating a four-burner stove with an attached grill.

The Wildwood and District Family Complex held their annual meeting on Wednesday in the complex. Financial statements and 1984 annual minutes were given out and discussed.

The 1985 board consists of David Hearty, council representative; Arnold Jorgensen, representing ID 14; Ernie Vankosky, Agricultural Society; and Kathy Having, Yellowhead School Division. Other members are: Tom Winfield, Roy Hanson, Heather Lacombe, Brian Howe and Lynda Akers.

Election of officers took place with Ernie Vankosky, president; Tom Winfield, vice-pres;

Roy Hanson, treasurer; Carol Riehl, secretary; and bingo co-ordinator Heather Lacombe.

Meetings are the third Wednesday of every month at 7:30 p.m. in the complex.

The Wildwood Community Association will hold its annual meeting Jan. 31 at 7:30 p.m. in the community hall.

The Wildwood Elks held their meeting in the Wildwood Hall on Thursday evening. Several members from the Hinton Lodge attended.

Arrangements were made for the Elks and the Royal Purple anniversary to be held in the hall on Feb. 2.

Klondike Days were planned for. They will take place Family Night, March 1 and a dance on Saturday evening.

The ladies held their meeting in the annex. They arranged for a St. Patrick's lunch and bake sale to be held in the legion hall March 15 starting at 11 a.m.

Board of Education looking for input on computer plan

All public school students must be given the opportunity to learn how to use computers to process information, says the board of education.

The second draft of a plan to implement such training was presented for discussion at the board's general committee meeting Jan. 15. Representatives from every school in the county will be reacting to the plan and it will be modified over the next six weeks if certain demands and provisions are unrealistic, said Marv Tkachuk, assistant superintendent.

"Our society is rapidly shifting its productive base from one which relies on human physical labor to one in which the significant percentage of the workforce is being engaged in processing information," says the plan.

Therefore, "consistent with their abilities," students will learn to record, store and retrieve information; control the rate and quality of information flow and develop logical problem solving sequences by using computers.

By the end of elementary school each student is to have used computers for a minimum of 50 hours.

After junior high every student is to have received a minimum of 75 hours of computer instruction.

In senior high school all students are to have access to computers for their courses and all teachers are to develop an activity which integrates computer use into each course offered.

Tkachuk said the plan emphasizes using computers as a tool for learning and not as a means to teach specialized computer programming.

Some universities are now stipulating the purchase of a micro-computer as part of a student's entrance requirements, Tkachuk said.

Individual schools will submit an annual evaluation report indicating the progress they have made in achieving the goals established by the plan.

A steering committee will meet each year with school personnel to assess whether the system's goals are "addressing the needs of the broader society and the clients within the system."

Each school will develop a three year plan to train all teachers in the application of computer technology. The plan will include a minimum 20 hours of teacher learning activities.

Board drafting statement of mission

Students must be encouraged to attain excellence, says the eighth draft of a board of education statement of mission.

"Students graduating from our schools should possess the attitudes, knowledge and training conducive of living a full, caring, productive life, guided by reason, striving for excellence and supporting the ideals of a democratic society," says the statement presented for discussion at a general committee meeting Jan. 15.

Each human being has the potential to learn, to develop and to aspire to greater knowledge."

The board commits itself to providing "quality teachers" who use "child-centred" teaching practices based on "accepted principles of learning theory."

"Developing and maintaining healthy integrity and respect is a major aim of all system personnel."

All parts of the system are to work toward common goals, says the statement.

The purpose of a mission statement is to provide a platform

"upon which all educational goals, guidelines and procedures can be predicated."

Jack Langford, superintendent of schools, said every organization operates with a statement of mission whether it is articulated or not.

The process of articulation, however, can make a drastic difference in that organization's future.

Limiting the scope of organization can prevent it from adjusting to changing circumstance. With too broad a mission an organization can attempt to do too many things.

Kinsmen plan fund-raising

The Drayton Valley Kinsmen Club is busy making plans for two fund-raising events which will assist them in the purchase of a 15-passenger community van and power lift. "There is a demand for this type of vehicle in Drayton Valley and to our knowledge, there's nothing available," says club president Terry Drader. The Kinsmen are looking to host a men's night in March and a ladies' night in May. A men's night a year ago raised about $8,000 and was described by Drader as very successful. Drader is hoping that these two events, coupled with a couple of other activities the club is looking at, will raise the $19,000 needed to purchase the van. Cost of the power lift would be extra.

Supper workers thanked

By LeOpal Larsson
Congratulations to Jim and Sheila Wilson on the birth of a baby boy in the Rimbey hospital Dec. 20. He weighed 8 lbs. 15 oz. and was named Jordan Tyler. He is a brother for Shawn, Kelly and Kyle. Grandparents are Jean Wilson and Grace and Dale Hammond, great grandparents are Clyde and Blanche Hammond. Mick and Donna Powers from Oxyoos, BC were recent visitors to the Sigward and LeOpal Larssons.

Buck Lake News

Thank you from Vera Bruus for the co-operation received in organizing the fisherman's supper. Nearly 170 suppers and more than 60 breakfasts were sold. The money will go into the general fund and will likely be used to put a new roof on the hall.
Theresa Larsson is recovering from surgery.
We extend sympathy to Anne and Mel Fontaine and family on the death of Anne's father, George Potter of Rimbey, who passed away Jan. 16 at the age of 81 years. Funeral services were held Monday at 11 a.m. at Alder Flats.

Constituency action urged by MLA Sparrow

One of the issues facing the Wetaskiwin-Leduc PC constituency organization in 1985 will be a proposed constituency boundary change, newly-elected president Smith said Jan. 15 at the association's annual meeting in Leduc.

The change proposed by the provincial electoral boundaries commission would drastically cut back on Wetaskiwin-Leduc's western border. Communities west of Leduc — such as Devon, Calmar and Thorsby — would be placed in the Drayton Valley constituency.

"If enough of us in the association feel strongly about this we should try and do something."

In response to questions from the floor, MLAs attending the meeting said anyone concerned with the boundary change shouldn't give up.

The electoral boundaries report was recommended to the legislature and has not yet been passed, MLA Don Sparrow reported, saying the report will be considered by the PC caucus and the legislature this spring. Once accepted, the changes would go into effect at the time of the next provincial election.

In the past, the legislature has always accepted the final report of the commission, said guest speaker Dr. Ian Reid, Edson MLA and solicitor general. He advised association members to write the electoral boundaries commission members with their concerns.

Sparrow suggested pursuing a route proposed by Leduc county council which would see moving the Wetaskiwin-Leduc constituency proposed western border further west: "back to the Thorsby area" or somewhere between where it is now and where the commission envisions it.

This slight alteration might be possible without "trying to again cut up the whole map of Alberta," Sparrow said, addressing the problem of altering one boundary and starting a "domino effect" for every constituency in the province.

"If we have a large constituency of Wetaskiwin-Leduc this time, it might be feasible to look at a Wetaskiwin-Leduc (north-south) split the next time around," he said.

Although many city, town, village and county councils opposed the proposed Wetaskiwin-Leduc boundary change during the electoral boundaries commission public hearings, few changes were made. However, a petition from the Pipestone area asking to remain in the constituency was successful, Sparrow noted.

Leduc Black Gold Rodeo Society in full swing

Thinking about springtime rodeos in mid-winter is unusual, but for the Leduc Black Gold Rodeo Society, January is a time when planning is in full swing.

And this year there's a new face at the helm after the society elected Glen Finstad Jan. 9 as its new chairman.

Finstad is a veteran of the rodeo organization, having first helped in the beer gardens and progressed to organizing the manpower section of the rodeo committee — responsible for providing volunteer workers.

"I'm honored but at the same time challenged. It's tough to step in to Ault Van Someren's shoes — he's run some very successful rodeos," says Finstad.

The Leduc resident, who works for the Alberta Opportunity Company out of Edmonton, says one of the major objectives for the rodeo committee in 1985 is to get more people involved in the event.

"Some people have been working so hard for so many years that they deserve a break. You can't expect people to go on and on. We can also use input from people with new ideas," Finstad says.

The rodeo itself will remain basically unchanged from previous years, according to Finstad.

The construction of the new municipal building in Alexandra Park has taken away the previous midway site and according to Finstad a new site will be selected, possibly closer to the Black Gold Centre.

The beefstake raffle will be held again this year, says Finstad, but with several changes.

A $1,500 third prize has been introduced. First prize is still a herd of 50 cattle and second prize is a Simmental bull. In addition to the final draw, eight early-bird draws of $1,000 each will be conducted until the week before the rodeo.

Weight Watchers back

After a five year absence, Weight Watchers are attempting to organize in Drayton Valley.

Fifty people are needed according to organizer Ellen Sigfusson.

"We are presently accepting names with the hope of starting Weight Watchers in March," Sigfusson stated.

Weight Watchers is for all ages, with special rates for students and seniors.

For more information call Ellen at 542-6244 or Dianna at 542-2097.

DISNEYLAND TURNS 30 — John Forsythe and Drew Barrymore will co-host "Disneyland's 30th Anniversary Celebration," a two-hour special airing Monday, Feb. 18. The program, which will be taped on location at the park in Anaheim, Calif., will feature familiar Disney characters and celebrities. The creation of fantasy mogul Walt Disney, the park opened July 17, 1955. The special coincides with the beginning of Disneyland's yearlong birthday celebration.

Guest stars include Julie Andrews, Debbie Allen, Roy Clark, David Hasselhoff, Julian Lennon and The Pointer Sisters.

AN AMERICAN PORTRAIT — Americans who deserve to be remembered but rarely are have been a regular one-minute feature weeknights on CBS.

"An American Portrait" introduces television audiences to people who are unfamiliar to most of us, but have left a mark on some aspect of American life. Narrating segments during the week of Feb. 4 will be Veronica Hamel, Robert Culp, Liv Ullmann, Kathleen Turner and Linda Gray. The specials will include the stories of Edward Loring, who painted a mural on the walls of the immigrants' dining room on Ellis Island, and Lupe Angulano, the daughter of migrant workers who founded a women's employment and education program.
